writing the roaming subject explores issues of identity formation representation and resistance in canada and suggests that these are particularly crucial questions during a period of canadian literary history

this study examines the work of the principle architects of anglo american modernist poetics t s eliot h d ezra pound gertrude stein edward thomas and wallace stevens and their response to the challenge of combatant war poetries it argues that these civilian poets sought to negotiate directly with the combatant s gnosticism specifically with the combatant s assertion that only those present at a catastrophe could properly represent its horrors the modernists rightly identified that gnosticism was a threat to their own representational claims on an increasingly traumatic modernity how was the imagination to be salvaged in order that it could still feel into the wounded experience of others in response to this challenge the modernists drafted their own imagined war poems developing in the process several different and contradictory poetic systems whereas scholarship ordinarily tells the story of intra war modern poetry as a series of different schools the trench lyric the home front elegy and the modernist long poem each moving in a different direction this study brings those traditions back together into one history by treating them as idiosyncratic responses to the same aesthetic problem
